Definition of Potential Hedge Fund Investors: Potential hedge fund investors are identified as classes of investors which typically invest in hedge fund managers. Obviously not every single potential hedge fund investor will be interested in investing in this space but these are the types of investors that invest money every day in hedge fund managers. Please check with compliance before doing any marketing towards any type of hedge fund investor.

Refunds: Any entry which is determined to be outdated (invalid), or does not fit the above definition of a potential hedge fund investor will result in a pro-rated refund for 4x your money for that entry, or those entries. For example if 10% of the database is made up of non-potential hedge fund investors the client is to receive a 40% refund on their purchase. In order to receive this refund you must let our team know exactly which entries are in error so we can continue to improve this resource, no refunds are provided without feedback on what was wrong with the database. This is our commitment to delivering a highly valuable product to you.

Ongoing Update: New clients are giving the first 6 month update for free, unless you are a Platinum clients which means you get 4 free updates to this resource after 6, 12, 18, and 24 months time. Ongoing updates are available for $199/6 months.
